"Boards are established to protect the people of California."
Section 101.6, B&P Code

"States should require each board to develop, implement and evaluate continuing competency requirements to assure the continuing competence of regulated health care professionals. . . . The evidence that continuing education cannot guarantee continuing competence is sobering."

Reforming Health Care Workforce Regulation: Policy Considerations for the 21st Century,
Report of the Taskforce on Health Care Workforce Regulation, December 1995, Pew Health
Professions Commission

"A quality approval label issued by licensing states, Medicare, Medicaid, or private payers, especially if linked to licensure and reimbursement, will negatively affect board certification. . . . For these reasons boards must move more rapidly If boards do not have their maintenance of certification programs in place soon, other organizations will fill the void, and our opportunity for self-regulation will be lost. . . . We have a shrinking window of opportunity. . . . To delay much longer is to lose it."

"Move Faster, or Lose," President's Column, the ABMS Record, the American Board of Medical Specialties, Winter 2003

"It was more than 30 years ago, in the pages of the Federation Bulletin, that Robert C. Derbyshire, MD, wrote ' . . . whenever the subject of recertification or re-examination was brought up in almost any medical gathering it was greeted by an uncomfortable silence or open hostility.' I regret to say that during the past three decades the prevailing attitude in the profession toward a physician having to prove his continuing competency has changed little."

"Maintenance of Competency: An Old Emerging Issue," President's Message, Journal of Medical Licensure and Discipline, Federation of State Medical Boards, Vol 89, Number 1, 2003

"As the public demands greater physician accountability, a group of leading medical societies believes the first step begins with reforming continuing medical education. . . . Participating groups included the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education, the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education, the American Academy of Family Physicians, the American Board of Medical Specialties, the American College of Surgeons, the American Medical Association, the Association of American Medical Colleges, the National Board of Medical Examiners and the Federation."
